User Testing
Appendix 8.3.1
Recipes For Life
21/02/2015 – 22/02/2015
3 participants

Session 1

Participant 1

Sign In Page:

- Liked the page
- Seemed festive
- When watching the user enter password recognised I need to do password size check.

Add A Recipe:

- Took some time to understand the plus sign to add an ingredient
- Didn't mind the dialog style.
- Liked the typography.
- Asked about the image because it was a fixed image of cookies.

Add A Cookbook:

- Very easy
- Noticed name edit text box needed slightly fixed.

Recipe Page:

- Wondered if colour scheme might be too girly.
- Liked the icons.

Edit Recipe:

- Found it straightforward understood the edit symbol.

Edit cookbook list:

- Didn't work when participant tried to use it.

Add a contributor:

- Fair enough.
- Could use some explanation on contributors. What if I just want to someone to look at the cookbook and not contribute?

Participant 2

Sign In Page:

- Couldn't see the blue edit text line.
- Reminded me to think about password encryption.
- Found hints confusing as she thought it was already filled out.
- Could maybe use a loading sign when logging in.

Add A Recipe:

- Didn't notice drop down.
- Pop up number input kept confusing participant when entering recipe

Add A Cookbook:

- Fine

Recipe Page:

- Pretty
- Questioned the fixed image

Edit Recipe:

- Fine

Edit cookbook list:

- Fine

Add a contributor:

- Fine

Recognised that participant sometimes struggled to know what the app was doing when waiting to sync. Needs some form of loading symbol or background process.

Participant 3

Sign In Page:

- Generally fine.
- A little bit confused with the hints on the form
- Speed on the sync was a bit of an issue

Add A Recipe:

- Pop up number input kept confusing and frustrating participant when entering recipe
- Plus buttons were sometimes hard to press and a bit confusing

Add A Cookbook:

- Fine

Recipe Page:

- Thought it was a bit girly.
- Fixed image was asked about again.

Edit Recipe:

- Fine

Edit cookbook list:

- Fine

Add a contributor:

- Fine